

Writing a New Article

Here is how to create a brand new article for Mozilla Support.

1. Click Create new article.
2. Give your article a title, a slug, and a category in the article description boxes. For more information on what to add, click here.

Create a New Knowledge Base Article

Title:

Slug:

Category:

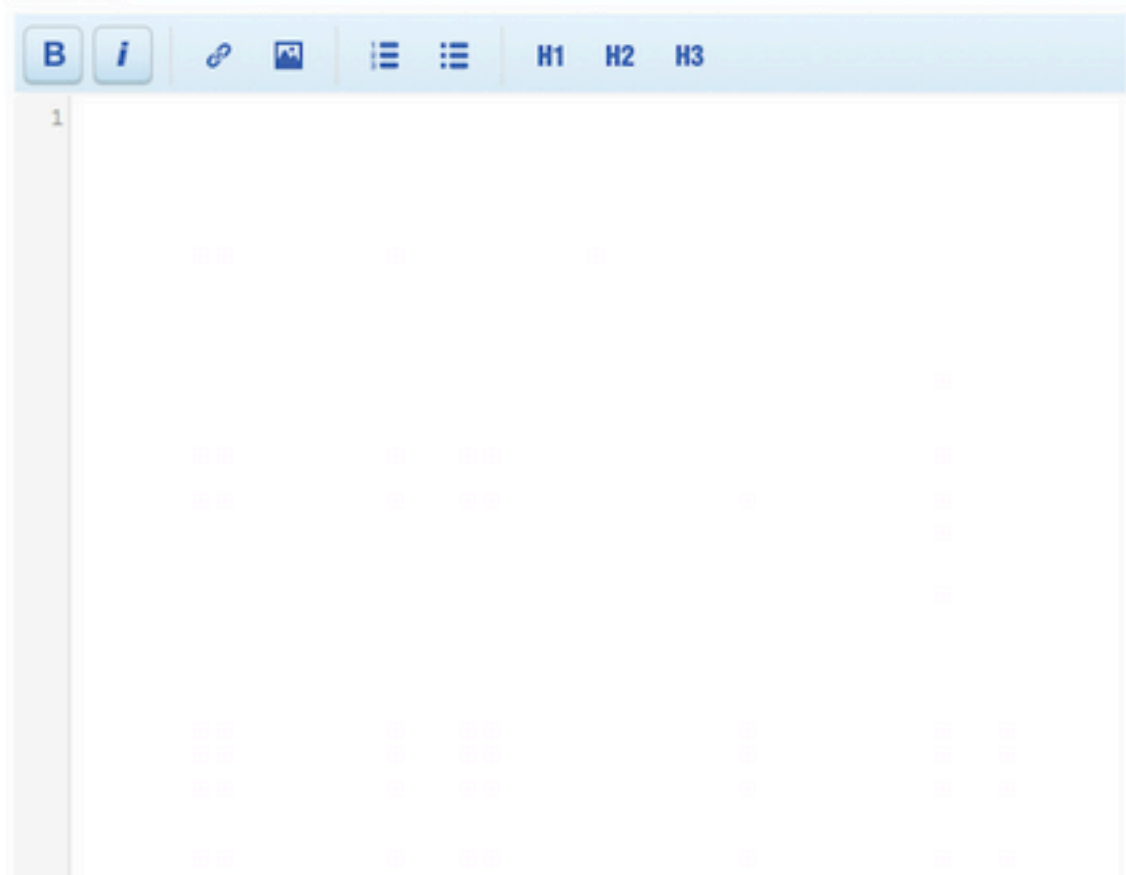

Allow translations:

Relevant to:

- | | |
|--|---|
| <input type="checkbox"/> Firefox | <input type="checkbox"/> Firefox for Android |
| <input type="checkbox"/> Firefox for iOS | <input type="checkbox"/> Firefox OS |
| <input type="checkbox"/> Focus by Firefox | <input type="checkbox"/> Klar |
| <input type="checkbox"/> Thunderbird | <input type="checkbox"/> Open Badges |
| <input type="checkbox"/> Webmaker | <input type="checkbox"/> Privacy and Security |
| <input type="checkbox"/> Firefox for Windows 8 Touch | <input type="checkbox"/> Contributors |

3. Write out your article in a wiki markup format in the textbox. To see how to use the wiki markup, click Markup chart. To see what an article should look like, click here.

Content:

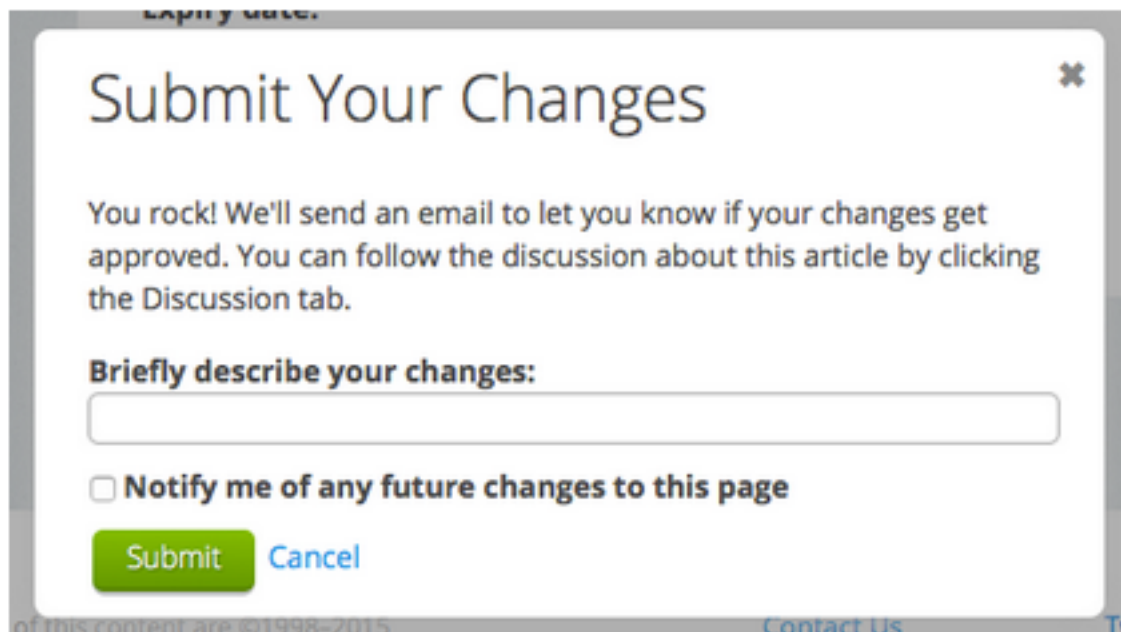

The image shows a screenshot of a wiki editor's content area. At the top, there is a light blue toolbar with several icons: a bold 'B' button, an italic 'i' button, a link icon, an image icon, a list icon, and heading buttons labeled 'H1', 'H2', and 'H3'. Below the toolbar is a large, empty text area with a vertical scrollbar on the right. The text area is currently blank, with a small '1' visible in the top-left corner of the editing box.

4. Click to see what your article will look like when it's been published.

5. When you're satisfied with your article's content and appearance, click

.

6. A new box pops up. Type in some basic information about your article and press Submit .

The image shows a dialog box titled "Submit Your Changes" with a close button (X) in the top right corner. The text inside the dialog box reads: "You rock! We'll send an email to let you know if your changes get approved. You can follow the discussion about this article by clicking the Discussion tab." Below this text is a section titled "Briefly describe your changes:" followed by a text input field. Underneath the input field is a checkbox labeled "Notify me of any future changes to this page". At the bottom of the dialog box are two buttons: a green "Submit" button and a blue "Cancel" button. The background of the page behind the dialog box is partially visible, showing a copyright notice "of this content are ©1998-2015" and a link "Contact Us".

7. Wait for a reviewer to approve the article before it can be published.

Tip: Consider drafting your article on a separate document like in Microsoft Word or Google Docs before writing it out on Mozilla's website.